No	This proposal disadvantages those who work hard and do not claim benefits
Yes
Yes	I think the bans should be £75 or £100. £50 seems very small as it might only be one extra day's work which means it could still be re assessed monthly due to the variance of working days each month (ranges between 20 and 23 days usually)
Yes
Yes	It's great to see the council supporting Carers. I think the whole proposal from an administration point of view makes much more sense
Don't kr	Not The proposal isn't clear what is meant by disregarding the allowance, So I am unable to partake in this survey, although I really would have liked to have a say.

Yes	People that have adopted children that would otherwise remain in the care system and therefore would be funded by the authority should be entitled to a 25% reduction in Council Tax.

Yes	this looks like a very sensible approach to a difficult problelm

Yes	Get rid of council tax all together and everyone will be happy! Just give people a set figure you will pay them. If they work and they earn that amount you give them nothing. If they work and don't earn the amount you pay the difference. You can't make it fairer than that. Stop giving handouts to low life's that do nothing for society.
Yes
Yes	Would like to see more disregarded - what is the point giving it with one hand and taking it away with another. Carers deserve every penny they can get and are saving the country millions.
Yes	The amount of council tax charged is far too high for almost every household regardless of whether or not they are on benefits. When most of the roads are in a complete state, local police stations are gone and bins being emptied is variable it is an appalling service for the extortionate amount of money taken from our wages.

Yes	If the income bands include housing costs then they are far too low for our universal credit clients. For example, a person on single person rate of £73.34 UC would be pushed up in to band 4 if housing costs are included because they would have £120 potentially in housing costs and this would put their weekly income at £193.34. It is likely that under the current scheme they are paying 20% council tax but under the new scheme they would end up paying 65%. This is just too extreme a rise for them
No	the proposed bands are too narrow , if you work one extra day in the month (bank holidays , etc) you could move up a band negating the benefit from the extra work , thus de-incentivising work .
No
Yes	If this proposal goes through my family (two adults and one child) will see a cut in our council tax reduction from £198 a year by a hal to about £97 a year. That is unfair and appears to be a cut in benefits, not just a procedural simplification. The top discount ban should be 10% and not 5% in order to avoid this hardship for our family for this change.

- Yes My family would lose out from this scheme, yet it is being presented as just an administrative change. Have you actually looked at the affect that this proposal will have on claimants, and if so are you being honest with us because this proposal will make my family worse off by about £10 a week and whilst that does not seem like a lot of money, it makes all the difference to a family struggling on Universal Credit. We are most affected by the plan as it affects a couple wit one child and we curr
- Yes We lost out from this plan by £200 a year. Under the current scheme we get a council tax reduction of £200. But under the new scheme, because we come just above the £435 upper income limit for a couple and one child, even after the £50 income set off a week. So for us this isnt just a change in the process, its a cut in our benefits and will make us poorer. Please either change the plan or drop it.
- Yes Yes A much better idea, it has been a right pain in the past as UC changes every month, my CT was being changed and each month they changed it there was no payment taken and this drove me into CT debt.
