

Rural Crime - Operation Artemis

Poaching takes many forms, from hare coursing, shooting deer at night, to using catapults to take pheasants. This type of offending is unique to the countryside and tends to be seasonal. The image of the poacher taking 'one for the pot' has long since gone, and poaching often involves groups or gangs who are members of Organised Crime Groups involved in all levels of criminality affecting all communities. Poaching tends to peak when the harvests come down at the end of the summer, reaching high levels between October and December. This year, the harvests have been early, meaning that access to fields is earlier than usual, so we are likely to see a longer sustained peak from September to December.

Operation ARTEMIS is Wiltshire Police's proactive operation to counter all forms of poaching, and sits within the national operation Project POACHER. Project POACHER aims to coordinate action across England and Wales through:

Prevention – Offering best advice to farmers, landowners, gamekeepers, and shooting and land management organisations regarding measures to prevent poaching, and proactive disruption procedures.

Intelligence – To allow the police to target offenders.

Enforcement – With good intelligence, the police can target poachers through the various rural and poaching based operations run throughout England and Wales.

Reassurance – By working together with communities, and by publicising activity such as operations, arrests, seizures and convictions.

Operation ARTEMIS is the word to be used when reporting all incidents of poaching, except fishing, within Wiltshire.

Officers from South CPT with support from Hampshire, Dorset, Special Constabulary and the Rural Crime Partnership have conducted 2 night time operations in recent weeks and we have seen 3 persons arrested between Salisbury and Amesbury for hare coursing resulting in Police seizing their dogs and car. We will continue to take positive action where opportunities present.
