Matt Hill is a nationally accredited self defence instructor through a national awarding body.

We would hope that his project will lead to other groups taking Matt's training sessions to help empower young people to feel confident as they get older and perhaps start to go to pubs and clubs. Young people can find themselves in difficult situations with people who are affected by alcohol and drugs. We hope this training will help them to avoid situations if possible, deescalate them if they cant be avoided and defend themselves if necessary if they are confronted by someone with or without a weapon.

Matt has offered the following programme :-
The Principles of how to act in a self defence situation.
Managing conflict without force,
Self defence and the law (what you can and can't do according to the law)
The psychology of self defence (what happens to us physically and mentally)

We will make a small charge to parents.
Matt Hill is happy to talk to the Area Board about this project.
